Hosting a Party With Mia Bella’s Gourmet Candles

Believe it or not, most women LOVE home parties. We often see this as a time to get together with girlfriends, eat, drink, socialize, share companionship and support and make new friends!

We’ve put together this information to assist you in making your party a success!

Suggested Ideas for where to host your Party

1. Your Home
2. Friend's Home
3. Condominium Community Center
4. Salon or Spa
5. Doctor's Office
6. Health Food Store
7. Local Community Center
8. Recreation Center
9. Health Club
10. Church
11. Yoga Studio
12. Alternative Health Center
13. Boutique or Quaint Coffee Shop

Inviting Guests to your Party

This doesn't need to be complicated. You can mail invitations, email invitations and directions to your home or party location, or simply pick up the phone and call. Or use a combination that works well for you and your guests.

I strongly suggest that you over-invite. Don't pre-judge anyone as to whether they would like to come or if they can come, etc. Let them be the one to decide for themselves! Even if people say yes, some will have to cancel, and it is a fact that there will be some that will not show up after giving you a firm commitment. Don't worry about the ones not there, focus on enjoying the ones that are!

Scripts for calling people

"Hi! Is this a good time to talk? I just wanted to give you a call and invite you to my Gourmet Soy Candle Party on date at time. I recently found a line of Hand Poured Gourmet Soy Candles that are a healthy alternative to paraffin wax and they smell outrageously delicious and I absolutely love them. You will even get a free gift for coming and if you bring a friend you will get two. Of course, we'll have snacks! Can I count on you to come?"

Printed or email Invitations

This can save time giving directions and getting back RSVP's. Here's a printed invitation that can be mailed on the next page.
